

Charlie the Brave Little Rabbit

*Read the passage below and answer

Once upon a time, in the heart of a thick forest, lived a little rabbit named Charlie. This forest was having a particularly harsh winter, and food was hard to find. Charlie's family was hungry, and it was up to Charlie to find food for them.

Charlie was a small rabbit, but he had a big heart. Despite the cold weather and deep snow, Charlie decided to venture out into the forest. As he hopped through the snow, Charlie felt scared, but he knew he had to be brave for his family.

Deep in the forest, Charlie found a patch of berries. He was about to grab some when he heard a growl. A large, scary wolf appeared. Charlie was terrified but knew he couldn't give up. He quickly hopped to a nearby hole and hid. The wolf waited for a while but eventually left.

Charlie gathered as many berries as he could carry and made the long journey home. He was tired and cold, but the thought of his family kept him going. When he finally got back, his family was overjoyed. Charlie was a hero!
